COURSE OUTLINE

This course provides instruction in orthodontic examination, diagnosis, and treatment-planning with emphasis on the goals, objectives, and realistic expectations of orthodontic treatment. Didactic instruction will be supplemented with clinical demonstrations and "hands-on" experiences.

Participants will be able to:

- effectively evaluate the severity of malocclusions,
- assess and anticipate the degree of treatment difficulty, and
- select and effectively treat those conditions appropriate for their level of training and experience.

Completion of this program provides participants the opportunity to proceed to the advanced-level clinical participation courses in orthodontics currently offered by Continuing Dental Education at the University of British Columbia, on a space availability basis.
